Introduction

This document sits alongside the Universal Addendum and details all alterations, clarifications and interpretations of White Wolf's Vampire: the Requiem setting for implementation within the live-action chronicle of Isles of Darkness. In all cases where applicable, this Addendum overrules the Universal Addendum.

All items not specifically listed here or in the Universal Addendum are considered not to be in use or available to PC's.

Please remember that you are taking part in a large linked story with different domains throughout the country, that creating a fun, involving story is more important than individual player or characters. Both storytellers and players are encouraged to bear this in mind and think about what they can do to make the game more fun and engaging for others.

The Isles of Darkness Vampire: The Requiem chronicle began in March 2015. The current chronicle is estimated to end in May 2020.

Approval Levels

All approvals are done by email and your first step should always be to go through your characters Local Storyteller.

Local Approval - The first level of approval with your Local Storyteller, this level is needed for all items and is required before items can move to Genre Level.

Genre Approval – Used for more rare items that are under the office of the Requiem Genre Storyteller.

Notification - Items that require Local Approval and the relevant office to be notified that your characters possesses the item/ability/power. This notification is completed by emailing the relevant office and cc-ing your Local Storyteller.

Character Generation

Character Basics

Age

In addition to the restrictions on age in the Universal Addendum the following are in force:

PC Age

- To reflect the UK setting any characters born before 1800 AD are GST approval.
- Characters embraced since the Kindred Civil War (February 2015) finished are considered Neonates.
- Characters embraced before the establishment of the Monarchy (January 1700) are considered Elders.
- All other characters are considered to be Ancillae.

NPC Age

- NPC's that are older can be used by LST's but it is strongly recommended to make these rare and also cautious, to reflect their advanced age.
- NPC's born before 1600 AD are GST approval.

Age XP

In order to ease the XP burden posed by increasing Blood Potency we have elected to introduce a system known as Age XP.

This is to demonstrate the Kindred virtue of waiting and growing in power just by patience which in table top games is exhibited by the free dot of Blood Potency gained every fifty years. It also provides balance between the other genres which have Arcane XP, Renown XP and Dream Teaching.

Age XP is gained at a rate of 1XP a month which forms its own pool that can only be used for the purchase of Blood Potency. For players that were not aware of Age XP it is backdated from when their character entered play

Characters are unable to increase in Blood Potency more than once a month, if a character has enough XP to purchase multiple levels of Blood Potency then they and their LST are encouraged to space out the increase in Blood Potency.

A PC Ghoul does not start earning this Age XP until they are embraced.

Allowed Character Types

The following character types are allowed in play, with the appropriate level of Approval or Notification. These can be created as either a Primary or Secondary character using the amount of XP listed in the Universal Addenda.

- Vampire (Basic 5 clans): LST Approval
- Vampire Bloodline: See Bloodline section of the Addenda
- Ghouls (Generic, non-Ghoul family): LST Approval

The following approval levels apply for NPC characters:

- Brood: LST Approval, GST Notification
- VII: Reserved for GST office
- Draugr: LST Approval
- Larvae: LST Approval
- Ghosts: LST Approval
- Zombies: LST Approval
- Revenants: LST Approval
- Gargoyles: LST Approval
- Homunculi: LST Approval
- Strix: Reserved for GST office

 - Formosae
 - Ghûl
 - Jiang Shi
 - Mnemovores

 - Ragged-men

Background Knowledge

In Character knowledge of historic events from Requiem for Rome and any supporting supplements is Genre Approval.

In depth character knowledge of or involvement in historic events of UK National settings background is Genre Approval.

Having met or interacted with canon NPCs in background is a Genre Approval.

To have a specialisation in any given subject (I.e. in a rare bloodline) is the same level of approval as the subject or item itself would be.

In depth knowledge of any Clan, Covenant, Bloodline etc. that your character is not currently part of, or associated exact mechanics thereof, requires a Genre Approval and must be paid for as an Occult Specialisation – if in any doubt, seek clarification from the GST's office. Using such knowledge in game requires a successful Intelligence + Occult roll. Successes equate to salient facts remembered as judged by the presiding ST.

Specifically knowledge of any covenant which you aren't a member of needs a specialisation, any clan you aren't a member of needs a specialisation, bloodlines specialisations are subdivided into three types of specialisations "Bloodlines", "Clan Bloodlines" and "Specific Bloodline". Each time the knowledge is more specific and likely to include more hidden lore.

Additionally knowledge of other venues is a specialisation, and knowledge of major NPC groups is a specialisation. All such specialisations are Genre Approval.

The contents of the book Rites of the Dragon is considered to be in depth knowledge of the Ordo Dracul covenant.

The contents of the book The Testament of Longinus is considered to be public knowledge.

Blood Potency

Blood Potency 7+ is GST approval.

Bloodlines

Bloodlines are smaller, derivative 'sub-families' of vampires which branch off from the five main clans. A bloodline retains many of the characteristics of its parent clan but the process of joining significantly alters a Kindred's vitae.

Bloodlines are intended to add further depth to a character and create opportunities for better roleplay with other characters. They are not intended to create the best combination of powers or to game the system.

Due to their rarity and the small character base within Requiem all members of a bloodline must be connected in some fashion. This can either be in the form of a direct connection i.e. another character is your Sire, Childe or Sibling. It could also be indirectly in the form of a shared ancestry i.e. your character has the same Grandsire as another which wasn't readily apparent.

We strongly encourage players and storytellers to utilise these links for better or for worse, creating opportunities for all characters involved. To this end all Bloodlines require the GST to be notified by the player so that they can work with them and their LST to establish these links for their character.

A list of bloodlines within the Requiem genre and their corresponding approval levels can be found in the appendices. Bloodlines marked with an asterisk (*) have been modified by this addenda and clarifications will be found at the bottom of the list.

Clans

There are five clans to choose from when playing a Vampire character. These are the Daeva, Gangrel, Mekhet, Nosferatu and Ventrue.

Each Clan Weakness works as written in Vampire: The Requiem.

A list of Clan specific Bloodlines, Devotions and Merits with their corresponding approval levels can be found in the appendices. Those marked with an asterisk (*) have been modified by this addenda and clarifications will be found at the bottom of the list.

Covenants

Carthian Movement

Members of the Carthian Movement are able to purchase Allies, Contacts, Herd, Location: Size and Location: Security for half of the normal XP cost.

A list of Carthian specific Bloodlines, Devotions and Merits with their corresponding approval levels can be found in the appendices. Those marked with an asterisk (*) have been modified by this addenda and clarifications will be found at the bottom of the list.

Circle of the Crone

The following Discipline is available to members of the Circle of the Crone only.

Cruac, Vampire: the Requiem pg 142

A list of Crone specific Bloodlines, Rituals, Devotions and Merits with their corresponding approval levels can be found in the appendices. Those marked with an asterisk (*) have been modified by this addenda and clarifications will be found at the bottom of the list.

Invictus

Invictus Oaths are only available to learn for characters who are members of the Invictus.

The majority of the Invictus Oaths have had their requirements lowered so that characters do not require multiple rare disciplines to purchase them.

Anyone may swear an Oath, Invictus or non-Invictus unless otherwise stated.

Explicitly, a notary may perform an Oath on another's behalf. Specifically the Oath of Blood Tell only requires the Notary performing it to know the Oath and not both parties. A Notary in this circumstance is considered to be any Invictus who has this Oath. No Oath can be performed on an unknowing subject unless otherwise stated in the power. Anyone who is subject to an Oath will know automatically that it has been performed on them.

Blood Oaths may not be performed with Vitae altered or empowered supernaturally. Contents of Blood Oaths must be approved by the Local Storyteller of each kindred swearing it and details forwarded to the GST email. Players must make available to the Storyteller the contents of an Invictus Blood Oath, the successes achieved on activation and when the Blood Oath was sworn in order for a Blood Oath to function.

The presiding Storyteller has final authority to determine if an Oath has been broken.

A Blood Oath which requires a character to perform actions in the performance of the Oath whilst not at games must have an accompanying downtime submission. The actions cannot be delegated to another (including Retainers) unless it is specified as possible in the Oath.

A list of Invictus specific Bloodlines, Oaths, Devotions and Merits with their corresponding approval levels can be found in the appendices. Those marked with an asterisk (*) have been modified by this addenda and clarifications will be found at the bottom of the list.

Lancea Sanctum

The following Discipline is available to members of the Lancea Sanctum only.

Theban Sorcery, Vampire: the Requiem pg 145

A list of Lancea Sanctum specific Bloodlines, Rituals, Devotions and Merits with their corresponding approval levels can be found in the appendices. Those marked with an asterisk (*) have been modified by this addenda and clarifications will be found at the bottom of the list.

Ordo Dracul

The following Disciplines are available to members of the Ordo Dracul only.

Spoiling, Ordo Dracul pg 205

This Discipline has an out of clan XP cost.

A character can only be affected by one type of Spoiling at one time, be it positive or negative in effect.

Spoiling Solutions must be prepared before game and each solution created requires one Downtime action. All variables must be defined in said Downtime action and the solution thereafter cannot be altered. A character can possess a number of pre-made Spoiling solutions equal to their level in Spoiling, these solutions must be created by the use of Downtime actions.

Completed Spoiling Solutions are not considered to be Vitae for any purpose. They appear as 'magical items' to appropriate abilities.

Coils of the Dragon, Vampire: the Requiem pg 209 & Ordo Dracul pg 175

For the purposes of XP, each Coil is considered a separate discipline, for example Coil of Beasts and Coil of Blood are separate disciplines.

Merits

All three Requiem specific status merits (City, Clan and Covenant) have no XP cost attached.

The roll for investigating the status levels of those within the same grouping as your character (City, Clan and Covenant) is changed to Intelligence + Politics. Merits which affect mundane politics draws can be used on this roll.

No Player Character can enter play with status in any of the three Requiem specific types above 2.

A list of Merits within the Requiem genre and their corresponding approval levels can be found in the appendices. Merits marked with an asterisk (*) have been modified by this addenda and clarifications will be found at the bottom of the list.

Disciplines

Unless otherwise stated in the power, the effect of any discipline may be ended at will as a Reflexive action on the part of the user of the power. Unless detailed in the individual ritual, the effect of Cruac or Theban rituals cannot be ended early and must continue until duration is over.

There are 5 common Disciplines: Animalism, Celerity, Resilience, Obfuscate and Vigour.

Please note that Celerity, Resilience and Vigour are also sometimes referred to as physical disciplines.

There are 5 rare Disciplines: Auspex, Dominate, Majesty, Nightmare and Protean.

During Character Creation only your original 3 Clan Disciplines can be treated in Clan for starting dots.

Rare out of clan Disciplines can be bought with XP during creation, but only to a maximum of 2 dots. In order to learn a level of an out of clan Rare Discipline you must drink 1 Vitae directly from the Kindred teaching you (unless you have an ability that circumvents this), with all the risk that entails.

Covenant and Bloodline Disciplines can be bought with XP during creation, but only characters which start play in the relevant group purchase these.

When joining a Bloodline during play, recalculate the XP cost of all disciplines based on their current in clan/out of clan status. This may result in a rebate of XP due to new Bloodline Discipline(s) that have been previously bought at a higher price, or a debt if one or more Disciplines become out of clan.

Learning a new Discipline level will typically take 1 Downtime Action for the lower level Common Disciplines. For other Rare Disciplines or Covenant specific ones this may require multiple Downtime Actions of the span of months. If unsure as to how long this may take please consult with your LST

The following clarifications are made to Disciplines:

Animalism 5 – Leashing the Beast: This power may be used on your own character as a reflexive action to cancel the effects of frenzy. Any other use still requires a standard action when used.

Auspex 2 – Aura Perception: The optional rule Deceitful Creatures on page 162 of Mind's Eye Theatre: the Requiem is in use. This effectively means that this power cannot be used as a lie detector on other Kindred.

Auspex 4 – Telepathy: Spending willpower to eject someone from your mind also stops that person from entering again for the rest of the scene.

Auspex 5 – Twilight Projection: When using this power the characters speed is equal to their current (Willpower + Auspex + Blood Potency) x 2.

The 'ghost body' can travel anywhere up until the Karman line (edge of Earth's atmosphere) and returns immediately to their body when this power is deactivated, no matter the distance. If the character is exposed to natural sunlight while in twilight form they must test to resist fear frenzy or return immediately to their body.

Dominate 1 to 5: This discipline requires the target to be able to see the user's eyes – not the other way around.

Dominate 5 – Possession: No powers or disciplines may be utilised by the user of this power while Possession is active.

Majesty 1 to 3: Any bonus from the Striking Looks merits only applies to these discipline levels.

Majesty 5 – Sovereignty: In terms of resisting this power, the user is considered the aggressor and anyone trying to overcome it are considered the defender. Please note this power does not compel others to follow the user's commands but neither can they ignore its effects (unless they successfully pass the contested draw).

Obfuscate 1 to 5: It's important to note that this discipline does not make the user or their targets invisible. It alters others perceptions so that they ignore or reinterpret what they see.

Obfuscate 3 – Cloak of Night: Mortal witnesses reconstruct the scene in their memory to justify the characters disappearance if successes drawn on the activation draw exceed half the witnesses Willpower (rounding up). In addition successes on this power penalise any surprise draws made if used to enter combat.

Obfuscate 5 – Cloak the Gathering: Mortal witnesses reconstruct the scene in their memory to justify the characters disappearance if successes drawn on the activation draw exceed half the witnesses Willpower (rounding up).

Please note that anyone who is not the user of this power but a target of it, will have to be successful on a Clash of Wills test in order to see anyone other than themselves under the effect of the power. The user of this power can see all targets under its effect. This makes communication and movement using this power difficult without dropping out of Obfuscate.

In addition successes on this power penalise any surprise draws made if used to enter combat. Surprise draws must also be made for friends under the effect of the power unless they were able to see those characters under its effect beforehand.

Protean 4 – Shape of the Beast: Any additional animal form must be a predator chosen from the list of natural animals in the Universal Addendum. To gain this form, the Kindred must taste blood directly from a live specimen.

Resilience 1 to 5: This discipline can only be activated once per scene. Unless powers explicitly state so, Resilience does not add to resistance pools based off of Stamina.

Vigor 1 to 5: The bonus to the dice pool is added before the roll.

Cruac & Theban Sorcery: All costs and expenditures for a ritual are paid on the first turn of casting (unless the ritual description states otherwise). The ritual is completed on the turn when as many successes as the rituals level are accrued. Only the final draw is used when calculating the successes for contesting the power or determining the effectiveness of the ritual based on its description.

All rituals are very obvious when initially casting as they require verbal chanting, physical gestures and some form of material component (an item or blood). No ritual can be cast in a manner that isn't obvious like whispering under ones breath.

A list of all rituals and their corresponding approval levels can be found in the appendices.

Clash of Wills: All uses of Obfuscate and Auspex that could cause a Clash of Wills test are rolled at the time of activation. When a Clash of Wills test is called, the players compare the successes gained upon activation of the original power (E.g. Obfuscate or Auspex 5) with the successes gained on the Wits + Investigation + Auspex roll of the player trying to breach the power. Once a player has made a Clash of Wills test, they use those successes for any further Clash of Wills test for the remainder of the scene. A player cannot wilfully attempt to deactivate a power and reactivate it to prompt a new Clash of Wills test. A significant change of location counts as a new scene.

For example, Jack activates Obfuscate 3 rolling Intelligence + Stealth + Obfuscate and draws 2 successes. Jack does not need to make any further rolls once the power is activated for the purposes of Clash of Wills.

Later, when Jill uses Auspex they enter into a Clash of Wills with Jack, comparing their successes on a Wits + Investigation + Auspex roll with the 2 successes that Jack drew to activate the power.

Jill only draws 2 successes and therefore cannot see through Jacks Obfuscate. Should Jill use Auspex again within the same scene, the successes for the Clash of Wills will remain at 2 and Jill will not be able to redraw. This will apply for the rest of the scene unless they make a significant change to their location or the scene ends.

Breath Drinking, Mythologies pg 63

This Discipline cannot be purchased at character creation and can only be purchased in play by completing a relevant plot kit run by the GST. Each level of this Discipline requires separate GST approval.

This Discipline has been modified to make it simple and easy to use. It counts as out of clan for XP cost.

The character can add their level of this Discipline to any feeding pool. The level of this Discipline also adds to your starting Vitae after all calculations have been made.

This Discipline can only be used on breathing, living targets (obviously!). This Discipline can only be used in conjunction with actual feeding until the user reaches level 5 in the Discipline. Any breath stolen does not reduce the victim's health like normal feeding but if used at later levels the victim may fall unconscious due to lack of breath.

At level 1 the user is able to gain some sustenance from the breath of their prey but will still need to also bite their victim to gain Vitae. As they progress through the levels the user does not need to drain as much Vitae from the target until they reach level 5 where they can subsist on the targets breath alone.

Devotions

It's highly recommended that players bring a copy of any devotion rules that they use on a regular basis or plan on using at a game. This is because there are a variety of powers with wide ranging effects and a Storyteller is not expected to know the full mechanics for all powers available to Player Characters.

A list of Devotions available within the Requiem genre and their corresponding approval levels can be found in the appendices. Devotions marked with asterisk (*) have been modified by this addenda and clarifications will be found at the bottom of that list.

Ghouls

All Ghoul PC's must have a PC Regnant.

Should a Vampire PC be Regnant for a Ghoul(s) they must deduct 1 Willpower and 1 Vitae (see Feeding Document) at the start of every game for each Ghoul they maintain. This includes PC Ghouls and Ghoul Retainers.

A list of Merits available to Ghouls characters within the Requiem genre and their corresponding approval levels can be found in the appendices.

Ghouls may achieve one point of status within a Covenant with appropriate behaviour, but may never gain any mechanical benefits of membership.

To calculate a Ghouls starting Vitae please refer to the Feeding Document.

For NPC Ghouls the following families are available from creation. The Ghoul's Regnant can be from any Clan or Covenant whether or not the Ghouls is from a family or none.

- Angustri, Ghouls pg95
- Bellsmeade, Circle of the Crone pg162
- Bull, Invictus pg156
- Crassus, Ghouls pg 98
- Gravenor, Ghouls pg101

- Hostewick, Invictus pg 154

If a Ghoul is embraced, carry out the procedure on page 87 of the Ghoul's book. Then, recalculate the new XP costs either placing the character into XP debt or giving them extra XP to spend.

Any Ghoul only merits or family Strengths/Weaknesses are lost when embraced and any XP spent on them is refunded.

Systems

Blood Use

When Vitae is spent to add to physical dice pools they will only add a maximum bonus equal to the base level attribute being used in the test or +5 whichever is greater. Augmentation in this fashion is in addition to any other bonuses and is not subject to any capping limitations that other bonuses might have

Blood Bonds

A blood bond may only increase one stage per night regardless of the number of separate drinks taken.

If your regnant dies the bond will fade in (12 minus your Blood Potency) months.

Your character can only have one level three blood bond to another character but they can have any number of one or two point blood bonds to other characters even after the initial three point blood bond has been formed.

Should a PC's regnant leave play through retirement or long term inactivity, it is considered a GST Approval to maintain the blood bond and this will only be considered if it is an active NPC. If the retired PC has simply vanished or moved into the background to the point of not impacting on the chronicle, the blood bond will be treated in the same way as a blood bond to a deceased PC – i.e. will degrade over (12 minus your Blood Potency) months.

Blood/Vitae Addiction

The mechanics and penalties for Blood Addiction remain the same with one key difference.

If your character enters Torpor, instead of spending 25 years in this state to remove the addiction they can remain in Torpor for the standard duration (calculated using the characters current Humanity and Blood Potency, see Torpor section) and choose to drop one level in Blood Potency (in addition to any drop in Blood Potency that normally happens).

If the player chooses to do this the Blood addiction is cured and the XP refunded for this level of BP is halved and placed into the Age XP. It's a high cost but Blood Addiction can lead to far worse things like Diablerie.

Childe

For each 50 years, or part thereof, since a kindred was embraced, they may have embraced a Kindred in their background. A kindred that has not embraced in background and is at least 50 years old may embrace one Kindred in play with no cost. Additional embraces would still require the cost of 1 Willpower dot.

Diablerie

Diablerie veins last in the aura for 3 months per level of Blood Potency of the Kindred who was diablerised. Diablerie requires a Genre Notification if enacted in play which should include the Names (IC & OOC) of everyone involved, benefits gained, etc.

Only name National level NPC's can be diablerised for a benefit. All other NPC's can be diablerised but no mechanical benefits are gained – the disadvantages however still apply.

Fighting Styles

The physical disciplines Celerity, Resilience, Vigour and Devotions can only be used with a Fighting Style when they are specifically listed in that Fighting Styles requirements.

This restriction does not include those Fighting Styles which boost defence or resistance stats.

Golconda

The path to Golconda is a National plot kit and will require a long term commitment from both the player and the character. This means that you must consider your characters dedication to achieving it as the rewards may not be immediate or tangible in the short term.

Humanity

Vampire PC's make use of the Morality stat rules found in the Universal Addendum.

Lost Reflection

Before Kindred would instinctively avoid anything that would cast a reflection or record their image. As of the evening of September 3rd 2017 they would no longer cast a reflection or be visible in pictures or recordings unless they willed it so.

Background

If your character was a Kindred between August 2017 and 3rd September 2017 they would have been affected by a number of changes. In the first week you were waking up early and staying awake for longer with no effort. This disappeared in the second week when you no longer felt the need to flee in the presence of fire or sunlight. This faded as well and in the third week you were able to use more of your vitae than usual and animal blood tasted nice but was also able to sustain you.

On Saturday 2nd September your character would have woken from their sleep and no longer be able to spend more Vitae than usual and animal blood would of no longer be appealing to your tastes. If you were of significant age you would no longer be able to drink animal blood as well.

From this evening whenever your character touched any religious symbol (Christian Cross, Star of David, symbol of Hecate etc), whether or not it's one they believe in it would of caused severe burning pain (lethal damage). This would of continued for as long as you remained touching the symbol (why would you?!?).

Whenever you were in the presence of any of these symbols it caused you great discomfort and removing them from sight is the only way this could be lessened. Covering it with a cloth or hiding it away in a bag would have been sufficient.

Near the end of that evening should you have touched a religious symbol again it would of no longer caused any severe damage but only mild bruising (bashing damage). This would have remained for the rest of the night.

On Sunday 3rd September this effect would have still been in place but as the night progressed it would have gradually lessened, the discomfort of being in the presence of these symbols would have started to recede. If you had touched them during the evening it would have taken prolonged exposure for it cause lasting harm.

At the end of that evening you would have heard in your mind the sound of viscous fluid dripping and splashing into a pool. This would have lasted for about a minute before disappearing entirely. It sounded as if it was all around you when it was present.

After this you no longer experience discomfort in the presence of Religious symbols or took damage from them.

In addition whenever you stood in front of a mirror, took a photo or look at yourself in a recording you would of no longer had a presence, a reflection. No longer would your Beast provoke you to move out of sight but you could stand directly in front of a mirror and there would be no reflection entirely.

This phenomena is still present and has not changed since. If you speak to other Kindred within Great Britain and abroad they would describe experiencing the very same things as yourself (depending on how forthcoming they are).

Mechanics

The OOC mechanical terms the rules for 'The Lost Visage' from the previous addenda and 'Blurred Image' in the Vampire: The Requiem sourcebook are no longer in play.

If your character stands in front of a mirror they will have no reflection. If someone takes a photo of your character an empty space will show where they character stands, like it has been photoshopped out. On recorded video you will not appear at all (though objects that are not yours or another vampires will still do so and sound will still be heard).

You can will your image to appear for a scene by spending a Willpower point. This will allow your reflection to show, to appear in a photo or video for a scene. Following that scene, the reflection, image, recording of you will disappear.

With a great degree of will you can make your image in a photo or recording permanent. This requires the expenditure of a Willpower Dot (which can be purchased back at a later date for 8xp).

Please bear in mind this is a game with supernatural effects and abilities so physically speaking your character still has a physical form which can block objects (but no obscure them). Also should your character be holding an object that is not a possession of theirs and of Size 1 or smaller then this will still appear in the reflection, image or recording so caution is always advised.

Any powers and/or rules that allow a Kindred to affect their reflection or image has been altered to take into account this change. Please see relevant abilities in this Addendum for more information.

Predators Taint

The optional rule limiting Predators Taint at organised Vampiric gatherings found on page 237 of Mind's Eye Theatre: The Requiem is in play.

The brief overview of this rule is that at any organised gathering your Beast is expecting to meet unknown Kindred. Unless otherwise stated while at the gathering your character will not need to make a test for meeting a unfamiliar Kindred. Please note this is only in use while at the Gathering. It does not apply to characters who decide to go elsewhere while at the game.

Staking

The rules for staking remain as per the core books meaning it is a targeted attack with an automatic -3 penalty to the Dice Pool.

There are also the following modifications:

- Any weapon being used for the purpose of staking uses either the traits of a stake (+1) or those of the base weapon, whichever is worse. For example, if staking with a spear it loses its normal bonus to attack and only grants a +1 like a stake.

- Any power that could permanently or temporarily increase the traits of a weapon, or give a bonus to it cannot add to a staking challenge (with the exception of Vigour). E.g. If Legionnaires Blessing was used upon a stake then it wouldn't grant this bonus to the attack pool if being used to stake an opposing Kindred.
- Under no circumstances can Fighting Styles be used by the aggressor as part of challenge to stake a Kindred.
- The defender against a staking challenge Kindred will always receive their basic defence (excluding powers like Celerity) even if restrained. The only instance this would not occur is if they were in torpor. For example, if being restrained a Kindred would still get its defence of 2 if being staked but could not use their Celerity.

Torpor

Involuntary Torpor

Torpor durations are based on Blood Potency and Humanity from the point the Kindred fell into involuntary torpor. This could have happened due to sustaining damage, staking or starvation. This is detailed on page 175 of Vampire: The Requiem, but with the reduction of the Base time as shown in the table below.

During torpor Kindred drop Blood Potency at 1 point per 56 days of torpor (to a minimum of BP 1) and gain a point of Humanity at the same rate (to a maximum of Humanity 7 or as appropriate for Cruac practitioners etc). After the full time of torpor has passed, the Kindred may rouse, or elect to continue in torpor, for whatever reason. If the character elects to continue in torpor then it is considered a voluntary torpor from that point onward.

Please note that if staked the Kindred remains in torpor until un-staked. During this time they will still suffer the consequences of torpor, so their Blood Potency may reduce and Humanity may increase depending on how long they are kept in this state.

Voluntary Torpor

A Kindred may choose to enter torpor voluntarily for a variety of reasons be that an intention to lay low or perhaps remove their addiction to Kindred Vitae. Whatever the reason the length of time spent in torpor and the consequences (as well as the dreams) are not as severe.

If the character is in torpor voluntarily then for calculating torpor duration the characters Blood Potency counts as 1 (regardless of their actual BP unless another rule or power states otherwise). Your characters humanity however remains unchanged and the rest of the rules affecting voluntary torpor found on page 176 of Vampire: The Requiem still apply.

For example:

Jack decides he wants to escape from Jill by going into torpor. Their BP is 10 and Humanity 5. Because they've decided to enter torpor voluntarily the duration is calculated using their Humanity 5 and BP 1. This means they spend 14 days in torpor before they can make a test to wake up as per the rules in Vampire: The Requiem.

Downtimes

A Kindred who is in Torpor for an entire downtime cycle (as defined in the Universal Addendum) is unable to take Downtime actions.

A Kindred who is in Torpor for part of a cycle may receive a reduced number of actions as follows:

- Less than 14 days = 3 Actions
- 14 to 21 days = 2 Actions
- More than 21 days = 1 Action

Merit based bonus actions are only affected if they require the Kindred's direct input, otherwise they are unaffected.

XP Refund

Characters that have Blood Potency reduced when in torpor regain half the XP used to purchase the Blood Potency, this XP is placed into the Age XP pool and it's recommended that the player wait at least three months before looking at increasing their Blood Potency again. The corresponding increase in Humanity however is at no cost.

For example:

Jack is BP10 and Humanity 5. They enter torpor, their normal duration is 140 days. After that time they have become BP 8 and Humanity 7 (This is because they drop 1 BP and increase 1 Humanity every 56 days). If they choose to awaken then they are entitled to a refund of half the XP lost.

Their XP is calculated as follows:

BP 10 to BP 9 = 80XP, BP 9 to BP 8 = 72XP

80XP + 72XP = 152XP

152XP / 2 = 76XP

Therefore the refunded XP is 76XP

The Torpor memory rules from The Blood Sourcebook are in play.

Clarifications

Annunaku: The bloodline Weakness is replaced with the following:

The first time an Annunaku leaves its territory in an evening they must spend 1 Vitae. If they repeatedly leave their territory that same evening they do not have to spend any more Vitae. Should an Annunaku wake in the evening outside of their territory for any reason they automatically spend this additional 1 Vitae.

Anvari: The bloodline Weakness is replaced with the following:

Members of the Anvari have difficulty in gaining sustenance from any victim that isn't intoxicated. As a result Anvari suffer from the Difficult Feeding penalty on any of their Feeding Pools and Starting Vitae (see Feeding document).

The discipline Nepenthe may be used in place of Majesty in a Feeding Pool (see Feeding document). The penalty for Difficult Feeding is reduced to -1 if used in this fashion.

Bron: The bloodline Weakness is replaced with the following:

Should the Bron remain within an area for too long the land itself begins to reject them. When the Bron first returns to a location after leaving it earlier that evening they must spend 1 Vitae. This will only happen once, if they repeatedly return to the same location in one evening they do not have to spend any more Vitae. A location could be anything from the size of a shed to a particular street. This should encourage the Bron to never remain in the same territory for too long or suffer the consequences.

In addition the Bron cannot purchase any of the Location merits above the first dot.

The Carnival: Instead of a choice of Weakness members of the Carnival possess the Nosferatu Weakness (in addition to their clan one) and reduce their total speed by 4.

Childer of the Morrigan: Members of the Childer of the Morrigan must always be a member of a Covenant. This choice is not restricted to the Circle of the Crone, they can choose any.

As a result the bloodlines Weakness may be triggered by disfavour within the Covenant they are a member of.

Duchagne: The discipline Licencieux may be used in place of Majesty in a Feeding Pool (see Feeding document).

Erzsébet: The Erzsébet Weakness comes into effect after every 6 months in play rather than 50 years.

Icarians: In addition to the Weakness given in the rules, Icarians will always start their home game with half their starting Willpower (rounding down) as opposed to being on full.

For example, Jack is an Icarian and has a maximum total Willpower of 11. At the beginning of their local game he will start with only 5 Willpower (11 divided by 2, rounded down). During the month Jack can increase their total from indulging his Vices or Virtues but at the start of their local game their current Willpower will drop to half their starting Willpower.

Libitarius: The discipline Mortualia may not be bought by non-members of the bloodline.

Morbus: Members of the Morbus suffer from the Difficult Feeding penalty on any Feeding Pool and their Starting Vitae pool (see Feeding document).

In addition as they are universally reviled and hunted when revealed (see Settings document) no Morbus can have Clan, Covenant or City status higher than 2.

Morotrophians: The bloodline Weakness is replaced with the following:

The first time a Morotrophian leaves an Institution (as defined by the Bloodline) in an evening they must spend 1 Vitae. If they repeatedly leave an Institution that same evening they do not have to spend any more Vitae. Should a Morotrophian wake in the evening outside of an Institution for any reason they automatically spend this additional 1 Vitae.

Mortifiers of the Flesh: The bloodline disciplines are the three core ones from the original clan plus Scourge.

Nelapsi: The Nelapsi receive a penalty on any Feeding Pool equal to their Blood Potency and their Starting Vitae is reduced by the same amount (see Feeding document).

Noctuku: Members of the Noctuku suffer from the Difficult Feeding penalty on any Feeding Pool and their Starting Vitae pool (see Feeding document).

The discipline Phagia may be used in place of Nightmare in a Feeding Pool (see Feeding document).

Norvegi: The bloodline Weakness is replaced with the following:

Due to the lack of fangs the Norvegi find it difficult to feed carefully. As a result the Norvegi suffer from the Difficult Feeding penalty on any Feeding Pool and Starting Vitae (see Feeding document). This cannot be negated in any way by use of Bloodworking.

In addition because of their commonly known reputation as Assassins they count both their City, Clan and Covenant Status as 1 less (to a minimum of 1) in any of their interactions.

Order of Sir Martin: Members of this bloodline who are also members of the Invictus do not receive a discount on Fighting Styles merits but still receive it on the Herd merit.

Osites: Members of the Osites suffer from the Difficult Feeding penalty on any Feeding Pool and Starting Vitae (see Feeding document).

Richmond (Oberloch): This bloodline originates from Yorkshire and uses all the rules for the Oberloch bloodline except for the Weakness.

The Richmonds Weakness is as follows:

Richmonds may not have superhuman Physical Attributes for Blood Potency over 5. For each level of Blood Potency over 1, reduce the maximum level of one Physical attribute by 1.

For Example, Jill is a BP 5 Richmond, so they must make 4 reductions on the maximum of their Physical attributes. Jill chooses to reduce Strength twice and Dexterity twice. Jill's new Physical attribute maximums are Strength 3, Dexterity 3 and Stamina 5.

Taifa: The bloodline Weakness is replaced with the following:

The Taifa bloodline works better when cooperating with others of its kind. As a result if the Taifa has not spent a Downtime action Pack Hunting with another character their Starting Vitae is reduced by 1 (see Feeding document).

In addition unless they are working with another Vampire while feeding in game any Feeding Pool they utilise is reduced by 1 (see Feeding document).

The Cockscomb Society: In addition to the Weakness given in the rules, Members of the Cockscomb Society will always start their home game with half their starting Willpower (rounding down) as opposed to being on full.

For example, Jack is a Cockscomb and has a maximum total Willpower of 11. At the beginning of their local game he will start with only 5 Willpower (11 divided by 2, rounded down). During the month Jack can increase their total from indulging his Vices or Virtues but at the start of their local game their current Willpower will drop to half their starting Willpower.

The Mara: Members of the Mara suffer from the Difficult Feeding penalty on any Feeding Pool and Starting Vitae (see Feeding document).

Tismanu: Each Tismanu must identify a specific Location merit to act as their haven for their bloodline Weakness. Only dots on the Tismanu's character sheet count towards this if it is a Shared Location.

Clarifications

Dream Visions: The mechanics for this merit are replaced with the following:

Upon meeting a new person you gain +1 to your first Empathy roll. When investigating a place you haven't been before you gain +1 to your first investigation roll. These bonuses can be applied to a power used (Auspex for example) as long as they use empathy or investigation in their dice pool.

Herd: See Blood Document.

Retainer: Any retainer can be transformed into a Ghoul. For each Ghoul retainer your character must subtract 1 Willpower and 1 Vitae from their total at the start of the game. This happens after all calculations and refreshes of Willpower have been made.

A Ghoul retainer may only spend Vitae for healing, discipline activation and other related actions with Vitae it has gained from drinking from a Vampire character.

Location (Altar): This merit must be attached to an existing location merit.

Location (Dark Temple): This merit must be attached to an existing location merit.

Location (Geomantic Nexus): This merit must be attached to an existing location merit.

Location (Necropolis): This merit must be attached to an existing location merit. The location's Size, Security and Occultation are considered to be one dot higher. If this is a shared location than all characters must possess this merit in order for the location to receive this bonus.

Location (Tomb): This merit must be attached to an existing location merit. The location's Security is increased by the number of dots in this merit for purposes of repelling intruders. If this is a shared location than all characters must possess this merit in order for the location to receive this bonus.

Mysteries of the Vitae: Some members of the Ordo Dracul learn of secret and esoteric ways to analyse the blood of Kindred. This allows them to accomplish things that most kindred can only do by tasting vitae. The exact method varies between kindred: some using alchemical lembics, others trained hellhounds and still others enchanted mass spectrometers. Exploring the mysteries of a kindred's vitae requires obtaining a sample (equal to 1 point):

Shadow Cult (Moirai): Details of this are kept with the GST. If you would like your PC to be involved with this Shadow Cult ask your LST to contact the GST.

Clarifications

Arcane Sight (Theban): This power functions exactly the same as Arcane Sight (Cruac) but the requirement for Cruac 1 is replaced with Theban 1.

Blink: You must have line of sight to the body part to be affected in order to activate this devotion.

Butcher's Hook: Replace the powers effect with the following:

Following the changes to the Kindred condition and images no longer showing in recordings users of this devotion have had to improvise. As before they are not able to make a Kindred in a recording visible but they can identify where one (or multiple) was present and establish whether they have met them before.

The use of this power is an extended action that requires no draw. It also requires the expenditure of multiple Vitae over several turns, the total cost depends on the nature of the recording and the number of Kindred they wish to identify.

First, if the recording is over an hour in length the user must spend 1 Vitae which will allow them to identify at which points within the recording Kindred were present. Once these points have been identified the character will have to bring up those portions of the recording before using the rest of this power. If the recording is short, an image or is already aware of which portions a Kindred is present they do not have to spend this.

Spending 2 Vitae and using a combination of Spirits Touch and Aura Perception the character is able to get a sense or impression of the Beast that is present within the recording. This takes two turns as each power is activated. If it is someone that the character has previously met or interacted with then it should be easy to identify. Should it be someone they have not met or interacted with before, if they later meet them they should be able to recognise the presence of their Beast.

If there are multiple Kindred present in a recording or image, the user of this power can spend an additional point of Vitae for each extra Kindred to get an impression of their Beast. If they choose not to they cannot later spend this additional Vitae to retroactively recognise it. They must reactivate the power as described above and pay the initial cost.

Please note that as this power includes the use of Spirits Touch the user of this power must be touching the picture or projected image throughout its use. It's also important to clarify that at no point is the image made visible to the user or anyone else present. This means they will not be able to describe the Kindred present (unless they recognise their Beast) and it is only the user of this power that gets the impression of the Kindreds Beast.

Camouflage: This power does not stack with Obfuscate. Should the user of this power also be under the effects of Obfuscate (or a similar effect) a separate test must be made to locate them should the initial Clash of Wills test be successful.

Dodona: Replace the powers effect with the following:

This power only affects vampires. The Dodona is one of the most potent of the Agonistes' rituals. With this power, a Polemicist implants a particular problem, puzzle or piece of knowledge into the vampire's subconscious, such that it continues to consider or work on it while in torpor. This gives the elder unusual insight when they awaken.

Success allows the vampire to gain experience even while asleep. One experience point is earned per month. On an exceptional success, two experience points are earned instead. The roll should be made at the end of the appropriate torpor, rather than the beginning. Experience points earned in this fashion count towards maximum XP that can be earned in a month.

Exegesis: Each success on the activation of this power means that the vampire's Humanity is considered 1 higher when calculating the minimum torpor length.

Freeze Bones: The dice pool for this power when used on a vampire subtracts (Stamina + Resilience) and lasts for a number of turns equal to successes. A character cannot be targeted by this power more than once per scene. Characters affected by this power cannot attack or full dodge and speed is limited to 2 but otherwise they act normally.

Ignore: This power boosts the users Resistance attributes in any situation where the Resistance stat is subtracted from the aggressors dice pool.

Messenger's Blessing: This power may not be used on your own character as a shielding power.

Palinode: Each success on this power increases the speed of Humanity gain in torpor by 14 days to a minimum of 14 days.

Quicken the Slumbering Vitae: You may use this power as a downtime action, the number of successes gained during this action will then be added to your starting vitae for the following month.

Soma: Each success increases or reduces the speed of Blood Potency loss by 14 days to a minimum of 14 days and a maximum of 910 days.

Vitae Bloat: This power can be activated at the beginning of a game if your characters final Vitae Pool is greater than what they can normally hold.

Oath of Awilyah: Knowledge of this oath for members not of the Taifa Bloodline is Genre Approval. For members of the Taifa Bloodline it is Local Approval. The participants do not need to be members of a particular covenant. The host must remain within the domain for the duration of the oath.

Oath of Blood Focus: The requirements for this oath have been reduced. Participants must be members of the Invictus. Characters must spend one Willpower point for every one of their Downtime actions taken that do not fulfil the contents of the Blood Oath, this Willpower use does not refresh at their Local game and they must start with this Willpower spent.

Oath of Blood Knives: The requirements for this oath have been reduced.

Oath of Blood Loyalty: The requirements for this oath have been reduced. The liege lord must be a member of the Invictus. A character may not maintain more than one Oath of Blood Loyalty at a time.

Oath of Blood Service: The requirements for this oath have been reduced. The liege lord must be a member of the Invictus. 'Suspended' willpower dots may not be bought back with experience. Benefits gained from this Blood Oath cannot exceed the Benefits gained from blood expenditure from the hand with regards to test pools and stat boosting count towards the normal caps. The oath requires at least one downtime action per month towards its fulfilment, failure to do so causes the character to break the oath.

Oath Unsworn: The requirements for this oath have been reduced.

The Path of Infaq: Knowledge of this oath for members not of the Taifa Bloodline is Genre Approval. For members of the Taifa Bloodline it is Local Approval. The participant does not need to be a member of the Invictus.

Denial of Morpheus	All Torpor counts as voluntary.	Horrors pg87
Stir the Blood	Blood Potency is halved (rounding down) for Torpor duration.	Horrors pg87

Clarifications

Beast 1 – Chastise the Beast: This power may not be used to cancel the effects of frenzy caused by supernatural means. For example if your character failed their resistance draw against the power Animalism 5 they would not be able to use this Coil to cancel the effects.

Blood 1 – Blood Seeps Slowly: Your Resolve is added to your Sustained Hunting pool before division when calculating your characters Feeding Pool (see Feeding Document).

Blood 3 - Perspicacious Blood: Your Sustained Hunting pool is divided by 2 rather than the normal 3.

Flesh 1 – The Man Wakes: This does not allow a Kindred to wake themselves from torpor unless the Vitae has been somehow mystically preserved prior to entering torpor.

Flesh 3 – The Face of Man: Due to Kindred's reflections disappearing entirely the ability to make your characters reflection appear at will has changed. This Coil now allows you to show as a blurred image on a reflective surface or recording at will. In addition you can spend a Willpower point to become completely visible for the rest of the evening. Your character can turn this off at any point but if they wish to become visible again they must spend another Willpower point which lasts the entire night or until it is turned off.

Clarifications

A Child from the Stones: Gargoyles created through the use of A Child from the Stones use the character sheet from Vampire: The Requiem p 226. Unless experience points are spent to purchase the Gargoyle as a retainer it ceases to function after the night of creation.

If purchased as a retainer each dot after the first in the merit gives you 10 XP to be spent improving the character sheet for the Gargoyle. The user of this ritual can only have one Gargoyle active at any given time.

It takes up to 2 Downtime Actions over 2 months to create a Gargoyle.

As One: Each purchase of the ritual As One represents one of the listed effects. Multiple purchases may be made of this ritual to represent different effects. Multiple characters can have the As One ritual active on the same area at the same time. A character may have more than one As One rituals active on the same area, but cannot have the same effect active more than once. A character may not use the As One ritual on a location "mechanically owned" by another Character.

Cheval: If the target of this power crosses a world barrier (Underworld, Spirit World etc), the ritual immediately ends. It cannot be cast on a target that is already on the other side of such a world barrier, such as in Twilight. It does not function if the target's current form does not have senses in the usual manner, E.g. mist form. Cheval only grants access to the target's mundane senses, and does not include any perceptual effects granted by powers such as Arcane Sight.

Crone's Renewal: XP is not refunded for the lost level of BP used by the sire in this ritual. The xp cost for the extra level of BP used for the new childe is free (remember to make note of this on each character sheet).

Drops of Destiny: The mechanical effect of this prophecy is the user gains a one off +1 bonus to any test on the evening that they use this ritual. The player must declare they are using this +1 bonus before making the roll. This ritual can only be used once per evening.

Eye of Norn: The mechanical effect of this revelation is the user gains 8 again on the first contested draw they make against a target of their choosing. The user can be either defender or attacker in this situation. This power lasts for the evening or until used.

Final Service of the Slave: The Retainer sacrificed must be one that the user of this power mechanically owns. The XP spent on the Retainer is lost and cannot be regained. The user of this power gains either a +2 bonus to an attribute or a +3 bonus to a skill that the Retainer possessed. This effect lasts for a number of evenings equal to level of Retainer.

Mask of Blood: Each use of this power requires the user to drink 1 Vitae directly from their target before their form can be taken. This blood must be obtained directly from feeding and not from any other means. Should the user wish to take on the same form again they must once again feed from the target even if they have fed from them earlier that same evening.

Path of Thorns: This ritual uses an attack pool equal to the user's Cruac dots + Successes gained on the last turn of ritual casting.

Rain: The penalties inflicted by this power cannot be circumvented by supernatural means for example using a ritual to ignore its negative effect. The only way to not be subject to the penalties is to avoid the weather in a mundane fashion (being inside a building for instance).

Roving Hut: This ritual may affect Location: Size, Security and Occultation. Since Location is no longer tracked separately, the teleportation/doors effect cannot be achieved.

Succulent Buboos: This Ritual may be considered cast (deducting the costs) at the start of a game if the character's Feeding Pool is higher than their BP based Blood Pool.

Taste of Destiny: Instead of regaining willpower during a specific event, the user of this power regains the first 3 points of willpower spent to add to their dice pools in the following scene.

Tiamet's Offspring: Homunculi created through the use of Tiamat's Offspring use the character sheet from Vampire: The Requiem p 225. Unless experience points are spent to purchase the Homunculi as a retainer it ceases to function after the night of creation. Any dot after the first gives you 10 experience points to be spent improving the Homunculi.

Tickblood: This ritual is used during downtime. If the character uses one of their downtime actions as a feeding action they can gain an additional vitae using this ritual.

Clarifications

Damned Radiance: The boost to Presence is supernatural and does not increase your 'natural' damage cap. The effects are obvious and Masquerade shattering.

Damned's Day: For the purposes of casting this ritual, your casting pool is not capped by your Humanity.

Fires of Vengeance: This ritual only affects a particular subject once per scene.

Prison of Denial: This ritual works as per the version in the book, unless the target is attacked. At that point the ritual effects end, and the target gains the temporary derangement Fugue. This persists for the remainder of the night, functions as per the derangement, and can be resisted as normal for a scene by spending a Willpower point.

Resistance of Discipline: Each application of a Discipline can only be affected once by Resistance of Discipline, whether the ritual is successful or not.

Spear of Faith: This ritual only affects a particular subject once per scene.

Vision of the Will: A subject undergoing a trance from this ritual may defend themselves and act normally if attacked.

Vitae Reliquary: Characters can only have a number of reliquaries equal to their willpower rating available to them at one time. Characters can spread these amongst PC allies if they wish but the total spread cannot go over the creator's willpower rating. e.g. Bob has 8 willpower thus can hold 8 Vitae Reliquaries, he can give 4 to his friend Mary but he cannot then create 4 more to hold 8 himself as there are already 8 in play.

Wrathful Judgement: This ritual only affects a particular subject once per scene.
